From the beginning of June 2024, our eleven years plus of hugely satisfying and fruitful involvement with “Open the Book” will come to an end.

For a variety of reasons, we’ve decided to come out from under the Bible Society’s umbrella and go our own way, trying to tailor what we offer more closely to what our schools need.

Almost a year of prayer and planning has gone into the decision. It will fundamentally involve the same people, doing much the same thing: namely, sharing the stories that make up the Christian salvation narrative with the children in our four schools. Now, though, we’ll be drawing on a decade’s experience and the combined skills of the team, as we take this step of faith into new territory! We’ll be using a three-year programme of lively new material, specially written for us, and new timetables that will mesh better with the school/church year.

Please pray for all those involved: writers, committee members, team members, schools, and – above all – the children!

The team members (nearly forty of them!) who go into our four schools are all very excited about this new adventure – and it would be wonderful to add to their number! Contact Sue Rodd (541571) or any current OTB team member for more information.
